Judge Cherry Leads McMath

Little Rock, Ark. (AP)—Judge Francis Cherry jumped to a lead over Gov. Sid McMath, a third term candidate, last night on the basis of early scattered returns from yesterday's run-off Democratic primary.

Official returns from 421 of the state's 2289 voting boxes gave:

Cherry 26,631; McMath 15,315.

Cherry, a Northeast Arkansas chancery court judge, who was little known outside his own district when he entered the race, ran 9,000 votes behind McMath in the preferential primary, July 29, when three powerful political figures were eliminated.

Democratic nomination traditionally almost certain election in this Southern state, Republican forces, led by Jeff Speck who polled 50,000 votes against McMath in the general election in 1950, are counting heavily on Gen. Eisenhower's popularity to give them a better chance against the Democrats this year.

Young King Arrives In New York

New York (AP)—A slender 17-year-old boy with brown eyes and a merry smile arrived yesterday aboard the liner Queen Mary after his first long ocean voyage.

The first thing he wants to see is the Dodger-Giant baseball game today — then a play, Broadway After Dark, a boat trip around Manhattan, the Statue of Liberty and the United Nations in session.

Facing a battery of reporters and photographers, his face grew serious and he started talking about irrigation.

He was King Feisal II of Iraq who next May 21 will assume the full responsibilities of a throne.

While in the United States, King Feisal wants to study water development and irrigation projects. Irrigation, he said, was "very much needed in our country" and was "one of the most important problems" of Iraq.

He will be feted at a city reception here and in Washington during his five-week tour of this country. He has been attending Harrow school near London.

Higher Milk Prices Seen

Washington (AP)—The family milk bill will go higher in the month ahead, the Agriculture Department predicted yesterday.

In a report on the dairy situation, the department said a late summer and fall decline in milk production coupled with strong consumer demands for dairy products is expected to push prices higher.

Milk output normally drops off at this time of year, reflecting the effect of hot weather on pastures. The severe drought in the south and northeast already has cut production considerably below normal.

New Billion-Dollar Atomic Plant To Be Located Near Portsmouth, Southern Ohio

Washington, D.C.—A sparsely settled area in Southern Ohio some 20 miles north of Portsmouth was picked yesterday as the site for a new $1,200,000,000 plant to speed output of atomic bomb fuel.

The Atomic Energy Commission announced the selection, confirming reports which had circulated in Ohio since Monday.

The fact that the new installation would be built, and that it would

Acheson Raps Czech Reds For Secrecy

Washington (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson yesterday denounced Communist Czechoslovakia as a traitor for barring U.S. authorities from interviewing John Hvasta, 25-year old American, before he reportedly escaped from a Czech prison.

With the other units of that expansion program it will bring America's plant investment in atomic facilities to more than six billion dollars for construction alone.

It will turn out U-235, the fissionable isotope of uranium, separating that material from one of ordinary uranium by the same gaseous diffusion process used in the original U-235 plant at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

It is the splitting of U-235 atoms which loses the energy for the blast of the A-bomb, for the radiation which creates the isotopes of other materials increasingly important in medicine and industry, and for the heat that is being harvested for power.

This is the only wholly new plant covered by the three-billion-dollar expansion program. The rest of the money goes into extension of facilities already built or building.

The Ohio Valley plant is expected to take three to four years in the building.

Naval Inquiry Blames Skipper

Washington (AP)—A Naval Court of Inquiry announced yesterday that the "sole cause" of the disastrous mid-Atlantic collision between the carrier Wasp and the destroyer minesweeper Hobson on April 26 was an "unexplained left turn" made by the smaller vessel.

A total of 176 crewmen died in the sinking of the Hobson.

The court said Lt. Comdr. W. J. Tierney, skipper of the Hobson, committed a grave error in judgment in making the turn.

The Hobson was run down by the 32,000-ton carrier. Tierney died in the collision.

The court, which began its hearings immediately after the badly-damaged Wasp reached New York last May, absolved all other officers on both ships of any responsibility for the accident—one of the worst peace-time disasters in U.S. naval history.

The three-admiral court said both vessels were in good condition and that no material, mechanical or electronic failures in either ship contributed to or caused the collision.

Milk output normally drops off at this time of year, reflecting the effect of hot weather on pastures. The severe drought in the south and northeast already has cut production considerably below normal.

Sawyer Criticizes Guesswork Forecasts Of Inflation In Obvious Reference To Arnall

Washington (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Sawyer yesterday criticized "guesswork" forecasts of inflation. He announced a forthcoming survey to obtain "facts" on how the steel strike settlement is affecting prices.

Sawyer's statement was aimed obviously at retiring OPS Director Ellis Arnall, without mentioning him by name. Arnall has predicted the steel price increase will cost the average family $100 a year.

In evident reply to this and to Arnall's assertion that the drought will have "disastrous" effects on the stabilization program, Sawyer said:

"Statements predicting the increase of inflationary pressures which are not based upon facts render a great disservice to the

U.S. Marines Repulse Two Fierce Attacks

Seoul (AP)—U.S. Marines repelled a fierce new attack by a battalion of Chinese Reds who struck early today under cover of a 6,000-round artillery barrage in a bloody attempt to recapture Bunker Ridge.

It was the second Communist assault in less than 12 hours on the strategic Western Front position a few miles east of the truce talk town of Panmunjom.

The leathernecks seized Bunker Ridge and nearby Siberia Hill early yesterday morning in a sweeping attack powered by artillery, tanks and planes.

The Chinese Reds struck back the first time late yesterday afternoon. A battalion of about 700 Reds stormed up the slopes behind a withering artillery barrage.

But the Marines, firing from prefabricated bunkers spotted along the ridge during a few quiet hours yesterday, hurled back the Reds.

This was the first mention of prefabricated bunkers being used to replace destroyed fortifications. The second assault came in the predawn dark. Waves of Chinese pushed up the hill. The action raged for four hours.

"It was a hell of a fight but they never reached our positions," a Marine spokesman said.

"When the Chinese began retreating we really slugged them with artillery."

The spokesman described Red casualties as "very heavy."

About 1,000 yards north of the ridge, 200 Chinese attacked and surrounded a Marine outpost while the hill battle was raging. Leatherneck rescue units cut through the Reds after bitter fighting and joined the outpost troops in beating off the Communists.

"We have stopped them cold," a frontline officer told AP correspondent Sam Summerlin. "Bunker Ridge is a piece of real estate we have to have, but the Chinese want it very bad, too."

The Air Force said the day's heaviest blows were directed in the Haeju-Yonan and Charyong areas on the Western Front. Participating were planes of two Fifth Air Force wings, Marine Corsairs and B-26 bombers.

For the first time in nine days U.S. Sabre jets failed to sight any Communist MiGs yesterday. In the preceding eight days they were credited with destroying 19 MiGs, probably destroying one and damaging 20.

•WHAT MANNER OF DRIVER ARE YOU?

A man who is rude in everyday life is looked upon as a boor. Most people avoid him.

But many a man, who wouldn't dream of pushing people out of his way, will think nothing of driving past another car under unsafe conditions on the highway. This is a far more serious and deadly form of rudeness.

You wouldn't think of hogging all the food set on the table—yet how many times do you hog the road? You wouldn't bang down the telephone receiver during a conversation —yet how many times do you try to beat a traffic light?

We think you get the idea. If you use the same good manners while driving that you use in everyday living—life on our highways will be safer. For a large percentage of traffic accidents are caused by plain bad manners.

Your very life may depend on good manners behind the wheel. After all—it is just another way of following the great "unwritten" laws of highway safety—control...caution...courtesy!

This message in the interest of highway safety is one of a series prepared and disseminated by the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association and the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue.

BUICK'S POWER STEERING? It's the big NEWS of the year

THERE is a host of things that endear a ROADMASTER to anyone who loves to drive.

There's the might of its Fireball 8 Engine—most powerful ever put in a Buick.

There's the thrift of its Airpower carburetor—a four-barrel automatic that literally brings increased power right out of thin air.

There's its hushed and luxurious silence—it's poised and level ride that cost a million dollars to develop—and the infinite smoothness of its Dynaflo Drive.

But the thing that has brought the most cheers for this big and obedient beauty is Buick's version of Power Steering.*

Gone is the tug of turning, parking, maneuvering in small space.

Power Steering takes over the effort of turning the front wheels—makes it a one-hand operation.

Do you have to learn to drive all over again if you have this new Buick feature?

DeOtte Farm Back To Normal, Cows Contented Again -- All Because Of Family Dog's Return

Things were getting back to normal this week at the Donald DeOtte farm in Hamilton Township.

Last week, shortly after the disappearance of the family dog "Blackie", Mr. DeOtte's cows went on a stay-put strike and refused to come home from pasture.

DeOtte told the story of the dog's loss to a Daily Record reporter. The next day a story appeared reciting the events of "Blackie's" disappearance.

The black short-haired shepherd dog, it seems, had, as usual, accompanied DeOtte to a store in Stroudsburg.

Her master went off to do some shopping. After waiting a reasonable length of time, "Blackie" took a sudden notion to do some sightseeing, jumped out of the car and took off for a shoe store down the street.

From there, no one knew exactly where the dog had gone. When DeOtte returned home and milking time came, he discovered he was now the proud owner of a bunch of reluctant milkers.

Two days after the story was published in The Record, however, one of DeOtte's neighbors stopped by the house to say she had seen a dog answering "Blackie's" description near the Glen Brook Country Club.

A store owner in East Stroudsburg drove all the way out to the Hamilton Township farm to say the same thing. He also said he had stopped and tried to get the dog into his own car, but the dog refused.

That clinched it, DeOtte was certain that the social-climbing canine was "Blackie".

A trip to the country club confirmed this belief.

When DeOtte stopped his car near the dog, stepped outside and whistled, pointing toward the dog refused.

From there, no one knew exactly where the dog had gone. When DeOtte returned home and

Strike Aftermath

The Army has ordered a "strict austerity" rationing of ammunition in its training program. Two major industries in this community have curtailed operations by cutting back to three and four days a week. One, in addition, has furloughed a sizeable group of men.

The reason: a sharp reduction in the output steel caused by the protracted steel strike.

It would seem to be in poor taste to compare the dilemma of local industry, the resulting lack of employment and its effect on our economy here and the Army's ammunition rationing.

Naturally, the available ammunition is being shipped to Korea to bolster our fighting forces for any possible Communist assault.

But, the reduction in shell output is only a fractional part of the cost levied against the shutdown of our steel mills. We are just beginning to feel that cost here.

Dr. John R. Steelman, acting head of the Office of Defense Stabilization, has informed President Truman that a year may be required to offset the effects of the strike; that the momentum of military production which built up rapidly during the February to May period had been completely lost.

We'd like to point up that Mr. Truman's forecast that a strike of the magnitude of the steel shutdown would be a major catastrophe has proved most accurate.

What we will never understand is this: if he believed his own forecast, he did nothing concrete to avert the catastrophe except to issue an illegal order of seizure of the industry.

We are still to hear of a reasonable explanation from

Mr. Truman concerning his reason for permitting a catastrophe situation to obtain until the Democratic convention came along.

Then he ended the strike with a stern order. Then it was too little and too late in every respect except one—the payoff.

Th payoff, of course, is Army rationing of shells and loss of production, employment and payrolls in our community and thousands of others in the nation.

Blood Is Still Needed

Today is the day when the Red Cross Bloodmobile is back again for another visit, seeking that wonderful life-giving pint from you in order that our men in Korea shall not be in want.

Doubtless you have read about your fighting U.S. Marines sweeping over "bloody Siberia Hill" east of Panmunjom Tuesday night. They went on to win a strategic ridge overlooking the hill.

Doubtless you realize that all of the blood spilled in this victorious action and previous attempts to win the important heights was not all from Communist fighters.

So, forgetting for a few moments your business and your pleasures, so comparatively minor beside the case of the man in Korea, you should present yourself at the Elks Club, East Stroudsburg today, give that pint of blood—the pint so easily spared for the man in faroff Korea.

Washington—Before Gen. P. T. Mow, who has yet to account for some $7,000,000 or so in funds claimed by the Chinese Nationalist government, fled to Mexico as a attempt was made to serve legal papers on him and his attorney, William Roberts.

John G. Broady, a New York attorney hired by the late Robert P. Patterson, former secretary of war, was assigned the task of keeping track of the Chinese General Mow. Broady charges in sworn testimony before a Senate investigating committee that he was slipped by Mow's attorney, Roberts. He considers this minor, compared to other activity in Mow's apartment. Here is part of Broady's testimony:

"From time to time between the 20th of November and the 29th, 1951, I and an assistant of mine stood in the hallway and listened through the door and the wall of Mow's apartment with a small battery operated listening unit.

"Mow stated on numerous occasions that he had turned over to William A. Roberts money he had kept and which the Republic of China was trying to get away from him. He stated that William A. Roberts knew that the money was turned over to him by the Republic of China, but that Roberts told him he was entitled to keep the money and spend it by paying part of it to William A. Roberts.

"In the course of one of Mow's conversations with several different white American advisers who called on him and I say they were Americans because they appeared to be Americans now claims that Owen Lattimore, Ambassador Philip Jessup and Drew Pearson were in his corner. Mow also stated that he felt he was safe in keeping this money because Roberts had the Republic of China over a barrel, since Roberts also represented Drew Pearson and could get Drew Pearson to blast the Republic of China on the air and in his column if the Republic of China tried to get too tough with Mow. Mow also made the statement on more than one occasion that he had given William A. Roberts $100,000 or more in currency in the city of Washington."

So far witnesses have related the actual transfer of only $44,000 from Mow to Roberts. That leaves a considerable portion of the $7,000,000 as yet unaccounted for.

My New York

—By Mel Heimer

New York—This is being written by a man who just has returned from an all-too-swift few days on the edge of a lake in the north of Michigan . . . and who has discovered, suddenly and almost sickeningly, that living in Manhattan is absolutely ridiculous.

Let him tell you. When this man got off the airplane in Traverse City, somewhere up near Canada, his blue tropical worsted was creased in a thousand different places and the color of his necktie had soaked through onto the collar of his white shirt—not from the cool plane, but from the wonderful New York he had left behind him.

"I'm sorry," the second man said as he toolled the auto away from the little airfield and in the direction of the north woods, along unlighted, winding roads between fields that sent up the magnificent smells of wet hay and grass in the night, "but it's about as hot here as it's ever been. Around 70, right now."

Our man just sat there, drinking in the cool night air, and thinking meditatively: this guy is crazy. Our man slept under two blankets that night. In the morning he got up and trudged around a golf course, racking up a spectacular 56 for nine holes, and in the afternoon he almost went for a swim in a lake that was 21 miles long but it was a little too cold.

That kind of thing went on for our man for a few days, every one better than the other. Even the rain was nice and cool, and he walked through it in blissful oblivion, knowing that his beautiful blue cap was shrinking and not caring. When his eight iron took great divots out of the course, he could smell the grass, damp and exquisite, and he was completely happy.

Then our man got on a plane and came back to New York. He must have been out of his mind.

These Days -- By George E. Sokolsky

An Approach To Election

At a convention, it is all hoop-la and excitement. On the morning after the night before, the managers of election campaigns must plot a plan of action based upon factors that are complex.

So far as popularity is concerned, the candidates are almost reduced to movie stars making personal appearances. Instead of delivering a few well-written, carefully considered speeches, dealing with great domestic and international issues, they have to chase about the country on whistle stops, exhibiting themselves, shaking hands, kissing babies and producing wives to prove something or other. It may be amusing to the people to get up at dawn to see a candidate in his bathrobe, bleary-eyed, telling them how much he loves Mudville Center—but it is not the serious business of a public debate.

The cold statistical calculation of the managers of the candidates has to do with the possibilities of elections. Presidents, be it remembered, are not directly elected by the people. Nor do the people have much choice. They are usually handed two names; sometimes a third. The choice is rarely as to who, out of the total population, would make the best President of the United States.

It is rather which of the two candidates would be least unsatisfactory. That is why practical politicians say that the people vote against, not for a candidate. The President is elected not on a national level, but by states. Each state has the right to a specific number of votes in the Electoral College based on its membership in Congress.

The Republicans lost in 1932 because of the Depression of 1929 and Prohibition. They lost in 1944 because the country was willing to give Roosevelt a second term. They should have won in 1940, but Wendell Willkie failed to make a vital issue, except the Third Term; organization Republicans, in that campaign, in many states, sat on their hands.

In 1944 and 1948, the war years, the only possible issue was the conduct of the war. The Republican Party split between nationalists and internationalists.

Many of the younger able men in the Republican Party had gone to work for the Administration in Washington, liked it, stayed there, and became part of the New Deal. The Federal payroll had increased and the payroll vote, as well as subsidies to farmers and pensions for the elderly, were reflected in the votes in every state.

Besides, a twofold shift had taken place in the American population.

First, instead of a predominantly rural people, we had changed over to an ever-increasing city population. In the cities, the process of fragmentation of our people into "minorities" into local groups of self interests and local concern, was given an importance not before known in American life.

The Republicans figured that they now have 25 governors. If they can hold those states, Eisenhower can be elected. Yet, one of those states is New York, which must stand as doubtful in the columns of both parties. There the so-called minorities hold the balance of power.

Ex-President Herbert Hoover and his wife vacationed recently in a small Canadian resort. The clerk examined his signature in the register, and was obviously impressed. "Any relation of G-Man Hoover?" he asked. When Mr. Hoover said no, he tried again. "How about the Hoover who makes those vacuum cleaners?" Again Ex-President Hoover said no. "Oh, well," consoled the clerk. "No harm done. We do get a kick, though, out of entertaining relatives of real celebrities!"

Couple Seeks Court Injunction To Close Rogers Stone Quarry

Larsens Also Ask $10,000 In Damages

A permanent injunction was sought yesterday against operations at the Thomas P. Rogers Stone Co. quarry, Stroudsburg RD 1.

The plaintiffs, whose property adjoins the quarry, are asking $10,000 damages.

The bill in equity, filed in the prothonotary's office, listed Mr. and Mrs. Ole K. Larsen, Stroudsburg RD 1, as plaintiffs. They are represented by Charles R. Bensinger Jr.

Rogers is represented by Arlington W. Williams. Counsel conferred for more than an hour in chambers with Judge Clarence E. Bodie, Wayne County jurist, before Bensinger filed the action.

Judge Bodie is holding court in the absence of President Judge Fred W. Davis.

The plaintiffs' statement declares that the Larsens bought their property in September 1936, along with the frame building and outbuildings on it.

At that time, the statement says, the property adjoined a "small stone quarry" and a small stone crushing machine. The quarry was then located some 1,500 feet from the property. At present, the statement continues, the quarry is within 30 feet of the Larsen property line and about 150 to 200 feet from the buildings.

Heavy blasting, according to the statement, has broken windows, caused the buildings to sag and cracks to appear. The statement charges these conditions result from "careless" operation of the quarry.

Rogers has not stopped operating the quarry despite repeated notice from the plaintiffs, the statement charges.

The statement asks permanent restraint of operation of the quarry "in such a manner as to cause vibrations, excessive blasting, dust, and damage to the property and health" of the plaintiffs.

The Rogers Co. has operated in the county in the neighborhood of 20 years. The first place of business was near North Water Gap.

Later the firm moved its present location near Boddsville, at the west end of Cherry Valley. The firm at present is the only producer of road materials in the county. The major portion of the quarry's output is crushed stone for road construction and material for cement manufacture.

The State Highway Department has bought considerable quantities of stone from the Rogers Co. for road building in Monroe and adjacent areas.

Dad Reprieved When Child Has Operation

Pittsburgh — A five-year-old girl who successfully underwent a delicate brain operation is on the bright path to recovery today with her reprieved convict father at her bedside.

Little Philomena Vernacchio suffered a fractured skull and a brain injury last Saturday when she fell seven feet into a neighbor's yard. Her head struck old wood and bricks.

Officials at Mercy Hospital said a delicate emergency operation was performed Sunday but declined to give further details.

In the meantime, Philomena's family contacted Dauphin County officials who cut short the prison term of the girl's father—John Vernacchio, 27.

Vernacchio had been serving a six to 12 month sentence for forgery. He had only one month left to serve.

President Judge Paul G. Smith approved Vernacchio's release when he heard of the girl's critical condition.

Philomena is the oldest of four children of whom the youngest is 19 months old. Their mother, Mrs. Mary Vernacchio, was forced to go on public relief after her husband was jailed in Harrisburg.

Sunday School To Dedicate Hymnals

Escaped Inmate Object Of Search

Newfoundland—State police guards yesterday pressed their search in Wayne County for Joseph O'Donnell, 34, Upper Darby, Pa., one of two convicts who escaped Farview State Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Waymart.

THAT'S A VOTING MACHINE—but it still takes a voter to operate one. Seventeen of the county's 21 newly-purchased voting machines arrived yesterday by transfer truck at the county courthouse. Chief Clerk Harry Taylor tried in vain to find available men to unload the machines at their proper places, but finally was forced to give up. The machines were taken, instead, to the Lesoine storage company warehouse on W. Main St. where they will await redistribution. Lions Club Hears Report On Circus

The Stroudsburg Lions Club, meeting last night at Bartonsville Inn, received reports on the recent presentation of the King Brothers Circus here and enjoyed a musical program.

President Harry Phillips was in the chair. After a roast beef dinner, Elwood Grant was given a birthday surprise. A special birthday cake, furnished by Oren Stiff was presented to Lion Grant while the members sang "Happy Birthday". A special feature was that the cake bore a single candle, which kept giving off a shower of sparks.

President Phillips announced that the next meeting will be held on Tuesday, August 26 at the Glen Brook Country Club.

Chairman Tom DeVivo of the circus committee presented his final report which was accepted.

Chairman Emerson Rahn of the boys and girls committee stated that the annual awarding of prizes and medals at the East Stroudsburg playground will take place tonight at 6 and the Stroudsburg event is scheduled for Friday. He asked for help in each case and several members volunteered.

The program of the meeting included piano numbers by a juvenile artist, Gary Goldschneider of the Golden Slipper Club, Bartonsville, and violin numbers by Raymond Marsh. Both artists gave classic numbers.

Counsel For Roberts To Seek His Release On Bail Pending Trial In Death Of Wife

Wilkes-Barre — Alleged wife-killer Jonah Roberts, 46, of Edwardsburg, was back in Luzerne County Jail yesterday on the basis of evidence submitted by the State in support of its prima facie case against the machinist.

Roberts' attorney, Frank Slattery Jr., meanwhile took the first steps toward asking for permission to enter bail for his client.

Judge Thomas M. Lewis, before whom the precedent-breaking dual purpose hearing had been conducted, ordered the defendant held for grand jury action Monday afternoon.

His decision followed the testimony of two State witnesses—Frances Allen, 24, Shickshinny, whose five-month secret romance formed an integral part of the prosecution's case and Joshua Bryant, the owner of a Kingston bicycle shop who said Roberts had bought a revolver from him and later asked him not to identify the purchaser.

Monday's "surprise" witness brought hushed and incredulous reactions from the crowded courtroom.

Not until Miss Allen took the stand had there been any overt indications that the case was to develop into a "love triangle" affair.

In her afternoon testimony, Miss Allen was asked several questions concerning the pair's conduct in the cabin. The girl's voice sank to a whisper, barely audible to the large audience, many of whom leaned forward in the seats in an effort to hear her, as she admitted she and Roberts often dined in the meeting place.

Neglect May Jeopardize Home Value

Every homeowner knows that his house needs regular repairs and improvements.

If essential repairs are long neglected, future repair bills accumulate. A roof that leaks, woodwork that is in need of paint, sheet metal that has rusted, doors that sag, walls or floors that have been allowed to deteriorate, all are signs of neglect.

When neglected too long, any house loses its worth as a dwelling and as an investment.

Question Guide
As a guide to help the home owner plan his property improvement program the FHA offers a list of questions for checking the condition of the home:

Are the foundation walls sound and in good condition?

Does the basement have adequate natural light?

Is the water-heating system in good order with hot water always on tap?

Is the electric wiring system and lighting up-to-date and safe?

Are the floors in good condition, modern attractive?

Is the painted woodwork in first-class condition?

Are the stairs convenient, safe, well-lighted?

Check Electric System
Are there sufficient electrical outlets and up-to-date electric fixtures properly located?

Does your attic have adequate lighting and ventilation?

Is the plumbing system in good condition?

Are exterior walls in good weather-tight condition?

Has the exterior wood-work been painted within the last three years?

Are gutters, downspouts, and flashing in sound condition?

Is the chimney in good condition? No loose bricks or stones?

Are the walks in good repair? Is exterior lighting adequate?

Baseboard Used For Heating

A study of the effects of radiator shape and size on heat distribution in rooms made at the University of Illinois 23 years ago is responsible for the development of modern baseboard heating units, according to an article, "Baseboard Heating Hits Its Stride," in a recent issue of the National Real Estate and Building Journal. Author of the article is Norman J. Radler, secretary of the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

Mr. Radler points out that the research work at the University of Illinois many years ago had two effects.

The immediate effect was to swing radiator production away from high radiators and into low models which would fit under windows. This was due to the fact that the study disclosed the advantages of a source of heat at the floor level.

The long-range effect was the stimulation of the development of baseboard heating. Today several manufacturers are producing baseboard heating units in quantity. They have found consumer acceptance of this clean, effective, and space-saving method of heating at the floor level.

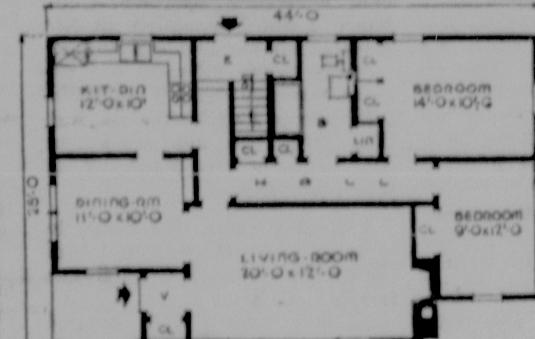

Whatnot Shelves Lighted Inside

Tiny whatnot shelves with built-in lighting are now available in finishes to blend with almost any room in the house.

The shelves which have a 20-watt fluorescent lamp concealed in the bottom not only add a decorative note, but also give sufficient light for casual reading or working.

When using the shelf over a bedroom chair, home lighting specialists suggest that it be hung so that the bottom is 42 inches above the floor for most comfortable lighting results.

Lighted shelves are also available in maple, white painted or unfinished so that they may be painted to match your walls.

Pick Garage Site, Type With Care

There are three main choices for location of the garage: Attached to one side of the house, beneath the house, or standing alone at the rear of the yard.

The latter location is generally discarded today because of the large amount of space sacrificed for driveway.

Most widely-used is the garage attached to the front of the house because it is more accessible and convenient in all weather.

Care should be taken, however, that the entrance is in harmony with the rest of the house and that a fire-barrier such as fireproof mineral wool insulation is placed between garage and house wall.

A new idea is to provide a back door as well as a front entrance so the car can be driven into the back yard for washing or other work. Efficient automatic doors are now available at a cost which is not excessive.

Before placing a garage beneath the house, consideration should be given, especially in cold climates, to the fact that the driveway will fill with snow, and unless adequate drains are provided within the garage, it will become flooded by heavy rains.

It must also be remembered that the driveway ramp sunk into the ground creates a hazard for children at play because of the danger of tumbling off the retaining walls.

Best use of the garage beneath the house is when the home is built on a hillside so the car can be driven straight into the garage without need for a ramp. The ceiling should be insulated with bats or blankets of mineral wool to minimize fire danger and to prevent rooms above the garage from becoming cold.

Chimney Screens Keep Out Bugs

Ordinary window screen placed over the top of the fireplace or furnace chimney will keep mosquitoes, flies and other insects out of the house during the summer.

The wire screening can be held in place at each corner of the chimney. If left in place the year around, the screen will prevent sparks from flying out with danger of setting fire to the roof.

Shelf By Refrigerator

If it is at all possible, plan a counter or work surface at the side your refrigerator door opens. This means no more fumbling at the door catch when your hands are full of dishes or food. It also cuts down the number of times the refrigerator door must be opened, and save trips back and forth to the refrigerator.

Sewing Room Can Be Made Cheerful

Tucked off in many an old house is a small cubicle originally a sewing room. Many of these have fallen into disuse and become catchalls, usually because they were gloomy or cramped.

Such space can be made one of the most valuable rooms in the house for sewing, reading or study of setting fire to the roof.

Keeping Hearth Clean

To keep the hearth and the front of the fireplace clean longer, use paste or liquid wax on the bricks or tiles.

Baseboard Radiation

Keep the hearth and the front of the fireplace clean longer, use paste or liquid wax on the bricks or tiles.

New Radiators Save On Space

Enormous improvements in radiators are now available.

New convector models can be recessed into the walls, provide as much heat as the old-fashioned radiators which are 40 per cent larger.

Baseboard radiation is another new space-saving feature in modern heating equipment which has been thoroughly tested. Radiating fins or hot-water pipes are concealed behind sections of iron that can be substituted for conventional baseboards, leaving large areas of wall space for placement of furniture.

Attached Garage May Waste Heat

Attaching the garage to the house will result in serious heat losses in the house unless garage doors are kept closed and the walls between garage and living quarters are fully insulated. Most builders recognize this and provide insulation.

The latter location is generally discarded today because of the large amount of space sacrificed for driveway.

Most widely-used is the garage attached to the front of the house because it is more accessible and convenient in all weather.

Care should be taken, however, that the entrance is in harmony with the rest of the house and that a fire-barrier such as fireproof mineral wool insulation is placed between garage and house wall.

Insulation, being fireproof, also reduces the hazard of fire spreading from garage to house.

Easy Handling Doors Are Big Garage Asset

The quality of a garage is measured by its convenience.

Where the garage has a difficult approach or unwieldy doors it often becomes more a source of irritation than an asset to the owner.

Doors are often the key to the convenience of a garage. If they are bulky and difficult to open or close, the car owner will be tempted to leave the car on the street or driveway rather than go through the troublesome business of operating the doors.

The three most common types of garage doors are those which swing outward, overhead doors, and folding doors.

Each type has certain virtues and disadvantages, making final selection largely a matter of personal choice. Outward-swinging doors are sometimes unwieldy, especially in windy weather. Snow and ice also hinder operation of outward-swinging doors.

Both outward and inward-swinging doors should be equipped with "hold fast" hardware. Folding and inward-swinging doors require extra space in the garage. Free of these two faults are overhead doors, although this type requires correct balancing and care in installation for free action and easy starting "lift."

In Britain the corresponding automotive term for defroster is "demister."

THROBBING TEMPLE DRUMS are calling thousands of islanders of many races to the Bon festival dances in Hawaii this August. Kimono-clad men, women and children shuffle and run to the almost hypnotic rhythms of native musicians as they play the familiar songs of their people. Most of the dancers are of Japanese ancestry, but, as in Hawaiian celebrations, all races are welcome—Chinese, Puerto Ricans, Filipinos, Hawaiians, Japanese and Caucasians. Originally a deeply religious affair to celebrate visits from the spirits of departed loved ones, Bon dances in Hawaii now are folk dance festivals open to anyone who wears a kimono and knows the steps. The dances are an annual, colorful and welcome event.

First Wilson Reunion

Acme Hose Aux.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Acme Hose Company will hold its annual picnic on Sunday, August 17, at the CLU Memorial Park with members bringing a covered dish and their own table service. In case of rain, the supper will be held at the Acme Hose house in East Stroudsburg.

In all, it was a right cozy day, maybe because of the rain, maybe because of the middle of the week. You saw more people you knew and in less than a hurry than usual, too.

And people passing by the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church last night might well have cocked an ear. They'd moved the whole Sunday school picnic, spirits and all, indoors and without dropping a note, either.

All in all, it was a right cozy day, maybe because of the rain, maybe because of the middle of the week. You saw more people you knew and in less than a hurry than usual, too.

In fact, you had time and room to stop a bit and catch up on the news: Like Mardi Kinsell's baby flying in from California, and the fact that the babies Jane McDowell's been baby-sitting for are grown-up enough to be flower girls for her wedding.

Makes you sort of homesick for fall when every day is cozy.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

It felt yesterday afternoon as if somebody's left the shower tap turned on enough just to drip—about the same temperature and force to the rain.

However, it did rain enough and at the exact time to leave a lot of little leaguers and little bigger leaguers standing around in their uniforms. Certainly seven full innings of play couldn't get the uniforms as dirty as a half hour of romping with the dog before you insisted that they change back into dungarees.

But speaking of uniforms, didn't Nancy Rockwell look spruce and trim in her WAVE uniform yesterday, fresh from graduation? That dark uniform and white hat seemed to be making the center French knot in a bow-knot of girls every time you spotted it, up and down the street.

And all up and down the street, too, you could see people you knew craning their necks to see what was going on in the top of the new Belfry on the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church. It's going to be a steeple, that's what—not a tremendously tall one, but a steeple nevertheless.

And people passing by the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church last night might well have cocked an ear. They'd moved the whole Sunday school picnic, spirits and all, indoors and without dropping a note, either.

MOUNT POCONO—The Charles Geissingers [left] and the David Hallocks toast the new High Point Inn enterprise which was properly dedicated in a new Pocono Mountains tradition last night. It's the former Mt. Pleasant Inn and the former Pocono Haven which the Hallocks operated—with that very new look.

Large Crowd Attends Formal Opening Of High Point Inn

Mount Pocono—Over 800 persons attended the grand opening of the High Point Inn and Parisian Sidewalk Cafe last night with a cocktail party and buffet dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Geissinger, managing-owners.

The Geissingers' introduction of their new treatment was a most pleasant and effective example of very smart Pocono Mountains promotion, properly and soundly based on substantial resort private enterprise.

The guests of Mr. and Mrs. Geissinger were made up of a concentration of VIPs within a radius of some 60 miles with similar representation in a wider radius.

Nothing was spared either in personal contact by the Geissingers or treatment from a staff augmented carefully to meet this new approach in Pocono Mountains public relations.

The inn, formerly known as Mount Pleasant and for many years as Pocono Haven, was purchased in June by Mr. and Mrs. Geissinger, also managing-owners of Monomoneck Inn, Mountainhome.

In attendance at the party were members of the press and various other business and professional organizations.

The sidewalk cafe cocktail lounge was remodeled from a former men's playroom, 20 by 100 feet, and resembles the famous Rue de la Paix in Paris, France. Set up in a typical Parisian style, the mode of Paris is captured by paintings of Paris scenes on the walls. All decorations are of French design with the color design in red, white and black. There is a circular orchestra stand on the east end.

A vacation hotel during the summer the inn remains open all year and caters to conventions, conclaves, sales meetings, and special dinner parties.

Vernon, Kluszewski Threaten To Repeat As Best Fielding First Baseman In Major Leagues

New York, (AP) — Mickey Vernon of the Washington Senators and Ted Kluszewski of the Cincinnati Reds, top fielding first basemen in the major leagues this year, are setting the stage for a pair of repeat performances.

As the season swings past the two-thirds mark, Vernon paces the American League first sackers with a .998 average. Kluszewski is tied for the National League lead with a .995 figure.

Individual fielding averages compiled by the Associated Press disclose that Vernon has committed only two errors in 1,019 chances. Through games of last Sunday, Kluszewski had erred four times in handling 844 chances.

Repeat

Vernon, who topped the American loop last season with .994, also tied for the lead in 1950. Kluszewski's .997 average paved the way among National League first base guardians last year.

A couple of St. Louis Brownies, Bob Young and Clint Courtney, are undisputed defensive leaders in the American League, but ties exist at the other positions.

Young is the pace-setter among second basemen with a mark of .986, one point ahead of Chicago's Nellie Fox. Rookie Courtney heads the catching department with a .997.

Fred Hatfield of Detroit and Gil McDougald of the Yankees are deadlocked for third base laurels at .970. New York's Phil Rizzuto and Johnny Lipon of the Red Sox share shortstop honors with averages of .979.

Gene Woodling of the Yankees and Cleveland's Dale Mitchell are tied for the top-slot among the outfielders with .994 figures, followed by Washington's Jim Busby and Dave Philley of the Athletics, each with .993.

Face Positions

Second baseman Grady Hatton of Cincinnati and third baseman Willie Jones of the Phils rank high among the National League defensive mainstays. Hatton, a converted third baseman, has made only five errors to capture honors at the keystone sack with a .990 average. At third base Jones shows the way with a .981 figure, 19 points better than his nearest pursuer.

Veteran "Pee Wee" Reese of the Dodgers and young Ray McMillan of Cincinnati rate as the best defensive shortstops with averages of .974 each. Another Dodger, Ray Campanella, is tied with Del Rice of the Cardinals for top catching efficiency. Each sports a .996 average.

Cincinnati's Bob Borkowski, Brooklyn's Carl Furillo and Boston's Sid Gordon are the outfield fielding stalwarts. Each has committed one miscue for a .995 mark.

Bill Lange, offensive guard, remains on the doubtful list because of a wrench knee.

Naturally the top offensive weapon for the Rams is expected to be the passing of quarterbacks Bob Waterfield and Norm Van Brocklin and the receiving of ends Tom Fears and Elroy Hirsch. But there have been reports from the practice field that Stydahar has stepped up his ground game for the engagement with the All-Stars.

Jumbo Joe has even called some secret drills this week in final preparation for his 45-man squad which includes 25 members of the 1951 championship aggregation.

At least four and maybe five of the veterans who were forced to sit out last Friday's Navy relief fund game in San Diego are ready to go now.

Available

Big "Hank" Younger will be available for right halfback in the bull elephant backfield and Jerry Williams is ready to spell "Deacon Dan" Towler at left half. Guard Stan West and tackle Charley Too-good go back into the defensive line.

But there have been reports from the practice field that Stydahar has stepped up his ground game for the engagement with the All-Stars.

The squad broke camp last night and leaves from Los Angeles by plane today.

Here's what the Ram coach says of the All-Stars:

"In all sincerity and frankness not merely to set up excuses, I am convinced that we are about to meet the strongest All-Star team in the history of the annual game. It is a team without a weakness simply because the coaches were first selected and then told to pick their own players."

First Round Postponed

Washington, Pa. (AP) — Rain forced postponement yesterday for 24 hours all first round games in the Pony League Little World Series.

Olivar Named To Post Vacated By Hickman As Head Coach Of Yale's Football Machine

New Haven, Conn. (AP) — Jordan Olivar, 37-year-old native of New York City, yesterday was named head coach of the Yale football team. Olivar succeeds Herman Hickman, whose resignation was announced late Monday afternoon.

The new head coach was hired on March 1 as an assistant to Hickman and a replacement for Douglas C. "Peahead" Walker. Olivar remained at Villanova until 1948 when he resigned to become head coach at Loyola College in Los Angeles. He was signed by Yale when Loyola dropped football and released its entire coaching staff.

At Villanova, Olivar's teams won 33 games and lost 20. His Loyola teams won 17 games and lost 11. Hickman's four-year record at Yale was 16 victories, 18 losses and two ties.

Rookie Hurls Cardinals To Nod Over Cubs

Chicago (AP) — Stuart Miller, a 21-year-old right hander from North Hampton, Mass., broke into the major leagues yesterday by pitching the St. Louis Cardinals to a 1-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Hal Rice's first-inning single scored Red Schoendienst with the game's only run as Miller blanked the Cubs on six hits—half of them credited to "Hank" Sauer as the Chicago slugger belted a double and two singles.

Tense Contest

It was a tense, drama-packed battle right to the finish. Miller getting Bill Serena, the Cubs' second baseman, with a called third strike on a three and two pitch for the last out with Chicago runners on first and third base.

Miller is a recent recall from the Cardinals' American Association farm at Columbus with a 11-5 record.

Bob Rush, the ace of the Chicago staff, was the victim of Miller's brilliant success. It marked the second straight time Rush has dropped a 1-0 verdict. He was trying for his twelfth win.

Mintz Asks For Verdict Reversal

Pittsburgh (AP) — Jake Mintz, co-manager of former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles, said yesterday he has asked the National Boxing Association to reverse the decision which gave Rex Layne of Utah a win over the Cincinnati Negro.

Blasts Dempsey Mintz bitterly assailed Referee Jack Dempsey's decision after the 10-round bout last Friday night at Ogden, Utah. Since then he has declared the verdict was the "worst in ring history." Upon his arrival here yesterday, Mintz said he had asked Abe Greene, NBA head, to reverse Dempsey.

There is no boxing commission in Utah and the state is not affiliated with the National Boxing Association.

Above-Normal Rainfall In State Eases Drought Crisis

Harrisburg, Pa.—Rain averaging one-quarter of an inch above normal brought some relief from drought conditions in north, west and southeast areas of Pennsylvania the past week, the State Agriculture Department reported yesterday.

* However, the federal-state weather-crop survey for the week ended yesterday showed that light rains along the western ridges and portions of the Susquehanna Basin were inadequate and left some localities the driest they have been in several years.

It was the first time in four weeks that the average precipitation for the state was above normal. The weekly average was 1.30 compared with the normal for the week of 1.04. The heaviest rains were in the southeast.

The report declared corn, potato and hay prospects across the state improved during the week. Potatoes made good growth but more rain is needed in northern counties. The commission report continued:

"Early peaches are a good crop and harvesting is well advanced. The state apple crop dropped 455,000 bushels to an August 1 estimate of 5,824,000 bushels."

"Harvesting of a good wheat crop is completed. Production is estimated at 19,02,000 bushels. Barley was better than expected and during July the estimate advanced 74,000 to a total of 5,328,000 bushels. Tobacco is growing nicely and there was no change in the estimated 1952 crop of 38,407,000 pounds."

"Rainy weather during the week hindered curing of hay but new seedlings showed improvement."

PMA Election Deadline Set For Saturday

Balloting for election in each of Monroe County's seven farm communities under supervision of Production and Marketing Administration is meeting with merit response, it was learned yesterday.

Already 71 ballots have been deposited with the county office in this, the second year of elections in this county. With 500 members enrolled in the program, last year's voting found 200 casting and it has been indicated the election this year is progressing well. Saturday is the final day for submitting ballots in the farmer-communities.

D. H. Griffith of Kunkletown, chairman of the county PMA committee, in making the announcement said farmers in each of the seven communities will vote for three farmers to serve on the committee.

Voting is by mail and, in general, any farmer is eligible to vote if he is owner, operator, tenant, or sharecropper, is participating or carrying out practices in accord with programs administered by the county PMA committee.

Chairman Griffith emphasized that the effectiveness of agricultural conservation program operations and of a price support and marketing programs depend on the community committeemen who are named at these elections.

Since this program concerns protection and improvement of soil conservation of water on the farms of Monroe County, Griffith said community committeemen are in a key position to fight for continued production. He also urged each farmer to examine the field carefully, making sure that farmers who are named are best qualified and will have time to devote to the position.

EMPLOYEES AT THE J. A. REINHARDT & CO. plant at Mountainhome are shown here producing metal calendars, name plates and plastic dials used by both civilian firms and the aircraft industries of the nation. Reinhardt Plant Grows Into Thriving Industry

By James B. Gaffney

Possibly everyone has seen the perpetual calendars, counter signs, window block and teller frames in banks. But probably few realize that the bronze, chrome, wooden and brass articles are made right here in Monroe County.

J. A. Reinhardt & Co., Mountainhome, devotes a good portion of its production to making these signs but allocates about 50 percent of the output of dials, panels, graduated scales and charts to the U.S. Navy and on a subcontract basis for aircraft factories.

Started on a small scale in the basement of the home of J. A. Reinhardt Sr., the business snowballed in its six-year existence and today is located in a concrete block structure on the outskirts of the community.

With an employment roll of ten men who work five and a half days each week, the firm is one of the few in the United States which manufactures the signs for banks and other offices. Through distributors in New York, Texas and Missouri its products are spread across the nation and since they are familiar articles that reflect the plant's workmanship, the return orders constantly come in.

These practical items are complete in all details. Calendar and pen sets for desks, counters and booths have a full year's supply of bakelite engraved and enameled inserts which are stored in hinge-cover tops where they cannot get lost. Chrome or oxidized finishes list for slightly more in price.

Other popular articles are combination calendar and literature racks which are used for dispensing deposit tickets, withdrawal slips or other forms of advertising matter; literature rack in bronze or brass for advertising; replacement inserts, engraved as either aluminum, white celluloid or black bakelite; Christmas club tablets, designating the payment due each week; holiday tablets announcing the closing of the bank or office on a designated date; counter signs, overhead signs, window blocks directing customer to "next window please"; desk block with the name and title of the individual; desk name plates; teller frames and desk signs.

The work is all precision and requires a definite skill for performance. Among the articles utilized in producing these signs are aluminum, brass, bronze, stainless steel, plastic and baked-on.

J. A. Reinhardt's son, John Jr., has been in this type of business for 12 years and was instrumental in encouraging his father and brother, Robert, to join forces.

The Reinhardt family moved to Monroe County from New York City in 1945 and their few short years here have been evidenced by marked progress for their business and the economic stability of the county.

Woodwork that is used to make some forms of signs is sent here from Chicago. Walnut is the principal type of wood and all forms of machinery are used in the final product.

In their single story building you will find lathes, buffers, punch presses, saws, shears, spraying equipment, lithograph press and etching tanks, in addition to smaller tools needed in the operation.

The contribution to the war effort is tremendous and revolves around the production of parts for aircraft panels. The engraving, a mechanical process, cuts characters and designs in white and plastic individually. Name plates, dials, panels, graduated scales etc., made to the customer's specifications and held to close tolerances, are the outcome of this process.

Chemical etching also is done by Reinhardt and his sons. The lithography is on metal and plastic. Using an offset press process which affords a wide variety of vivid and subtle effects in color, the press turns out the written data on many instruments used in the aircraft.

Using a master pattern sent here by the customer, in many cases the largest aircraft factories, the workmen follow the pattern with their engraving

Police Asked To Search For Two Boys

Two Scranton boys who were stopped in Hackettstown, N.J., in a stolen Stroudsburg car—and who later escaped from the municipal building there—were being sought by police yesterday.

District Attorney Elmer D. Christers said reports had been sent out to police throughout the district asking that the boys, aged 12 and 15, be turned over to Monroe County authorities if they are found.

The youths allegedly took the car of Olaf Pedersen, 612 Bryant St., Stroudsburg, Sunday, and drove it in low gear to Hackettstown, 35 miles away. The youths were held overnight in the municipal building, but picked the lock on door and ran away about noon Monday.

Driving a stolen car over a State line also makes the boys liable to Federal prosecution, authorities said.
